FIRE AND WATER CAUSE DAMAGE.

Department Under Criticism
on Account of Last Night's Blaze.

THE BLOCK WAS THREATENED

At the Corner of Peach and Pittsburgh
Streets Last Night, But the Fire
Was Not a Large One—Water Causes Greatest Ruin.

As the result of last night's fire in North Pittsburgh street which did damage to the extent of almost $5,000, there promises to be an upheaval in the public safety department which may result in the dismissal of all the members of the paid fire fighters on the grounds of incompetency. Of the less as reported by the victims, most of it was from damage by water, while the fire did but little harm to either the building or its contents.

Fire was discovered shortly before 9 o'clock last night in the Markell building on North Pittsburgh street, which is occupied by Soderbery & Rappoport, furniture dealers, the White Star restaurant, Bishop & White, proprietors, and W. R. Scott's grocery. When discovered, smoke was issuing from the upper windows of the building, which is of frame construction. The fire department responded promptly to an alarm turned in from Box 124, but for nearly 20 minutes the firemen could not locate the blaze and in the meantime poured gallons after gallons of chemicals into the smoke, turned several streams of water in the same direction and used axes with freedom.

The fire was a peculiar one. It is claimed it started from the restaurant, but this morning Carl Bishop, one of the proprietors, denied this. "If the fire started here how could it have gained such headway without being discovered by the customers who were sitting at the counter at the time?" he asked. "We did not know a thing about it until told by outsiders that smoke was issuing from the roof."

It was found, however, that a fire had been burning between the walls and when an investigation was made by one of the insurance adjusters today he declared that the flames would not have burned downward, in case the fire had originated in the upper stories of the building, and from crossed wires, according to Bishop's theory.

The supposition is that, following the slight blaze of Wednesday, which was from defective gas piping, a larger pipe was run into the restaurant and the additional blaze from this caused fire to ignite between the walls it ran upwards and ignited under the roof of the building.

The fire department fought like the demoralized body it was. One of the first moves was to knock a hole in the wall of Scott's store and run a hose through it, although no fire could be discovered. Then the firemen began working in the room above, but yet failed to find the blaze. After the firemen had sealed the walls of the building and reached the roof, which is two stories high, one floor lower than the corner building, the flames were found. A hole was knocked in the roof and from this great volumes of smoke belched forth. This was followed by the flames, but several well directed blasts of water quenched these.

Although the fire could have easily been extinguished by using but the one line of hose, in the excitement some firemen and bystanders hooked up another line and worked from the Peach street side of the building. There was no fire at all on this side, unless it could have been under the roof, but in spite of this stones and bricks were hurled at a second story window and a flood of water poured into the carpet room, which was not even filled with smoke. Great damage was done by this stream of water.

Fire Chief "Buddy" Martin left the work of fighting the fire to his men. When it was necessary to go to the City Hall for more hose, he was the one who made the trip, leaving the fire fighters without a head. Martin's alleged incapacity to grasp the situation and intelligently direct the men under him resulted in a storm of criticism being heaped upon his head.

That the firemen were handicapped by the absence of Councilman William McCormick, who is out of town, is generally admitted. Mr. McCormick is an efficient fire fighter and is always to be found on the ground when work is to be done. Mr. McCormick is Chairman of the Public Safety Committee and Town Council will probably attempt to place the blame on him for the failure of the firemen to make good.

Mr. McCormick will undoubtedly come back if any attempt is made to lay blame to him. It is known by his friends that he had no hand in the section of the paid fire department, Automobiles Must Stop While Passengers Board and Leave Cars.

The new automobile law provides a remedy for the constant dangers in front of the West Penn waiting rooms from automobile drivers who push their way through the crowd as cars arrive and depart. It is a daily occurrence in front of the building, with three or four cars stopped there, to see an auto driver come whizzing up or down the street and look his horn for the people to get out of the way; and it is also a daily occurrence to see men, women and children scurrying in all directions for safety, and many fear that a serious accident will some day occur on account of this ever-present danger.

Burgess Evans in an effort to enforce the automobile law finds that the local authorities must first place signs along the streets directing that the operators run slow and this matter is now with the Public Safety Committee of Council. He is urging and that he was far from satisfied with the selection. In case a new Fire Chief is elected, McCormick will probably stand firm for the exclusion of the West Side, which practically forced Martin's appointment on Council. It is said.

In spite of the criticism hurled at the department, there was none to make against the men as individuals. All of them worked hard and had been an efficient fire fighter to direct their efforts the fire would have been extinguished with comparatively little loss. Had Councilman McCormick been on hand to direct the work, the Fire Department would have escaped with little or no criticism.

The heaviest loss was sustained by Soderbery & Rappoport, who had an $8,000 stock of furniture in the building. Their damage will reach $3,000, mostly by water. Although there was considerable insurance, the loss will hardly be covered as Louis Rappoport, manager of the store, decided to let one policy lapse because of the almost prohibitive rates that were charged. W. R. Scott has his $1,000 loss fully covered, while the White Star restaurant carried no insurance. Their loss was about $200. The building is owned by F. E. Markell and was but slightly damaged, save by water, which practically ruined all of the papering.

HUSBAND AND WIFE BEFORE MAGISTRATE

Foreigners of Dunbar Township Have Been Quarrelling For Many Months.

On a charge of surety of the peace Joseph Bydosh of Juniataville was given a hearing this morning before Judge P. M. Buttermore of the West Side while his wife, Mrs. Anna Bydosh, was the defendant in a disorderly conduct case also tried before Judge Buttermore. The prosecutor in both cases was Mrs. Anna Kelly also of Juniataville. Several months ago the defendants and prosecutor figured in a disorderly conduct case and since that time trouble has been brewing.

The prosecutor alleged that Bydosh threatened to kill her by blowing up her home with dynamite. She also alleged that Mrs. Bydosh called her ugly names. The surety of the peace case was settled by the defendant paying the costs while Mrs. Bydosh, the defendant in the disorderly conduct case, paid the costs and a fine. The arrest was made by Constable William Roland of Dunbar township.

AUTO WRECK.

Connellsville Man Narrowly Escapes
In Smash-Up.

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 20.—Struck by Baltimore & Ohio train No. 61 at the Hutchinson crossing yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, an automobile party consisting of O. A. Evans, W. H. Hemley of Uniontown, and J. C. Howell of Connellsville, had a narrow escape when their machine was completely demolished. O. A. Evans the chauffeur, remained at the steering wheel until the automobile turned turtle; but the other two men saved themselves by jumping. Mr. Evans received a gash on the back or his head, an injury to his right knee and several painful bruises about the body. The car, which was a model D Franklin, owned by the Keystone Automobile Company, was completely destroyed at a loss of $3,000.

TARR MAN IN HOSPITAL.

Andrew Bahanek Contracts Typhoid Fever at Baggaley.

Andrew Bahanek, one of the residents of Baggaley suffering from typhoid fever, was taken to the Westmoreland Hospital, Greensburg, yesterday, it being deemed that his chance for recovery would be enhanced by the change. Mr. Bahanek is the new manager of the Union Supply Company's store at Baggaley, having succeeded Calvin Hesse when the latter was given a position as mine superintendent by the Frick company, about two months ago. Mr. Bahanek came to Baggaley from Tarr the members to get the signs ready quickly so that the law can be rigidly enforced. The section of greatest importance to the people reads as follows:

"That the local authorities having charge of any of the highways may, in dangerous, congested or built-up portions, place signs marked, 'Danger, Run Slow' and at those places the speed limit shall not exceed the rate of a mile in five minutes; the said signs to be plainly legible, and the letters to be not less than five inches in height. When a motor vehicle meets or overtakes a street passenger car, which has stopped for the purpose of taking on or letting off passengers, the motor vehicle shall not pass said car, on the side on which passengers get on or off until the car has started and any passengers who have alighted shall have gotten safely to the side of the road."

DIAMOND AT MEYERSDALE.

Miss Helen Layton Gets It as Prettiest Girl.

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Aug. 20.—Miss Helen Layton of Avalon, was selected as the handsomest girl in a grandstand packed with fair damsels at the ball park yesterday. The management of the Meyersdale club announced its intention of giving a diamond ring to the best-looking girl who would attend the ball game today. Nearly every girl in town turned out, attired in her best.

Manager Rea of the local club, escorted the members of the Pittsburgh Collegians to pick the handsomest girl. Dave Fitzsimmons, Barclay and Rea went into the grandstand and presented Miss Layton with the ring.

There was another prize to the handsomest man. It was given to a rooster who sat back of the Collegians' bench and roared the visitors.

ANGRY YELLS GREET THE BREAD AND WATER

Greensburg Citizens Hear Loud Roarings
From Prisoners on the Starvation Menu in Vogue There.

GREENSBURG, Aug. 20.—Vigorous protests by prisoners in the county jail against the bread and water diet prescribed by Sheriff John E. Shields has availed nothing and in the face of a decree handed down by Judge Alexander D. McConnell it looks ominous for both the sheriff and the prisoners. The indignant yells of the jail inmates at meal time can be heard two squares.

It was said today that the condition of the prison, owing to the fact that the prisoners have refused to keep the place clean, in a very bad and County Solicitor Joseph A. McCurdy will appeal to the State Board of Charities that sanitary measures be enforced.

Sheriff Shields is firm in his refusal to serve full meals at less than 25 cents a day unless he is given extra help. The sheriff's appeal to the court brought the ruling that the county was under no obligation to pay the sheriff of prisoners a source of revenue to him in addition to his stipulated salary. The court fixed the price of feeding prisoners at 6 1/2 cents a day. Each prisoner receives a half of a loaf of bread and all the water he can drink at each meal.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETS MASTER CARPENTER

Amicable Agreement, With Pennsylvania Railroad Company
Is in Sight.

Town Council met with Master Carpenter C. W. Ritchey of the Pennsylvania Railroad; yesterday and was given an insight into the plans of the company in Connellsville. Early next year work on double tracking the line through Connellsville will be taken up.

The matter of safety gates at the more dangerous crossings was not broached, but Mr. Ritchey promised that the crossings at Gibson avenue and North Pittsburgh street, near Davidson, will be widened to the full 60 foot width of the street.

The railroad company also desires to replace the wooden trestle on the West Side with one of steel and will construct it so that the streets can be opened under it.

Other details were discussed but Mr. Ritchey said he had no knowledge of the company's intentions in regard to these matters except regarding the crossings, paving and erection of the concrete approach to the bridge along Grape alley.

Inspecting Coal Lands.
I. R. Smith of Mt. Pleasant, took I. F. and J. W. Overholt in his auto yesterday over to see a 1,300-acre Indiana coal field, in which Mr. Smith is a third owner, and which he and his partners are thinking of developing.

FIERCE STORM AT NOON TODAY.

Rainy Barn at Moyer Struck by Lightning and Destroyed.

WAS GENERAL IN THIS SECTION

Extended From Mountain Districts on the East to McKeesport, Charlestown and Greensburg, Drenching the Entire Section.

One of the worst storms and many think the heaviest of the season raged in Connellsville this forenoon. There was a brilliant electrical display which sent shivers down the spine of those nervously constituted, and made even those of stout hearts and strong constitutions feel just a trifle uneasy.

When the lightning played tag with the electric light wires there was some little darkness in spots but after a few spasms the lights got down to business the power house being able to combat the difficulties with good success. The telephone wires received some of the flashes and the bells rang several times from the overburge of electricity.

About 11 o'clock McKeesport reported the storm, stating that accompanying a terrific electrical display there was a heavy rainfall, but the storm did not reach here until almost 12 o'clock. Preceding its arrival there was something doing every second in the electrical line. Charlestown reported it as the worst storm of the season.

The storm was accompanied by a heavy rainfall, that dashed violently at times, and other times was simply a straight downpour, that caused a sheet of water to flow from the roofs, the drain pipes being too small to take care of the extraordinary fall.

In a few minutes after the storm began about 11:45 the inclined streets of town began to assume the appearance of muddy rivers. This stage of water continued to rise until in the midst of the storm the water was curb high and breaking over onto the sidewalks at many places.

Main street took on the appearance of a wide and muddy mill race, and the water gained a great headway from Horpeck's store down the street, being diverted at but few places, one of the principal ones being West Pittsburgh street where Main street was somewhat relieved of its overflow. Church Place, from Cottage avenue down, was another example of the raging torrent, that carried debris in front of it. Water street and the lower section of town received the load of water from the hills and mud was noticeable everywhere for hours after the storm.

The Street Committee of Town Council was relieved of the necessity of having a street washing; feet, and the streets that will have to be cleaned will be the very downtown ones. If there were the lifeless bodies of any cats, rats or dogs in the upper portion of town, there were hurried along to the downtown section, and should be found there altogether.

At 11:49 a few minutes of hail varied the steady roar of the storm, with its spiteful rattle on the roofs, but the hail feature soon passed away, and rain and lightning again took their position on the centre of the stage.

The rain seemed a general one, but telephones were so badly cut off that people were so much about answering their calls that little general information was obtainable.

The farmers lost an immense amount of well fertilized ground by having it washed from their fields, and newly ploughed ones suffered more or less. Country roads had no holes washed in them, were further decorated with mud puddles, and much of the force of "working on the roads" of the summertime was washed away, and holes left that the same

Dead Cats and Rats Make The Alleys Most Unsanitary.

Dead cats and dead rats appear to be plentiful in the alleys in the center of the town, and it is almost next to impossible to have them removed promptly. This was illustrated when Burgess J. L. Evans had to personally superintend the removal of a dead cat this morning. Cats may have nine lives, but they do "peter out" sometimes, and a fine large specimen answered the last call in some mysterious manner two days ago in Church Place. The Health Officer was notified of the unsanitary nuisance, but he explains that he forgot it. The patrol car was not removed until Burgess Evans came along this morning and harkening to the complaints of citizens secured a wagon and made a deposit of 50 cents to have the remains interred.

In one alley in town a few days ago as many as four large rats were found one of them lying upon the pavement.

ACTED SUSPICIOUS.

Foreigner Rushes Into Public Building and Is Arrested.

A stranger who rushed into the City Hall this morning, hiked up the stairs and sought refuge in the most secluded corner of Borough Treasurer I. W. Nutter's office, was placed under arrest as a suspicious character by Chief of Police Rottler this morning.

The man claimed to be a machinist who was going to the Baltimore & Ohio shops to secure work. He said he was afraid of a crowd of men sitting along the wall of the public grounds and sought refuge in the building.

Chief Rottler saw the man pass the lotteries, but saw no action on their part that warranted any fear on his part. He will be given a hearing this evening.

SHAM BATTLE FEATURE OF VETERANS' REUNION

Westmoreland County Celebration at Jeannette Attended by 15,000 Persons—Mt. Pleasant Man Elected.

JEANNETTE, Pa., Aug. 20.—At the third annual reunion of the Westmoreland County Veterans' Association, composed of veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars, and Sons of Veterans, at Oakford park, yesterday, 15,000 persons were present, two-thirds of that number witnessing a sham battle in which the "Grays" were forced to surrender and march into the camp of the "Blues" with arms reversed.

Four hundred veterans of the Civil war registered at headquarters in charge of Cyrus Smith of Irwin, Secretary of the association. The oldest veteran was Isaac Freidline, aged 90. One Confederate veteran also registered. He was Thomas Myers of Jeannette, who fought under Gen. Wade Hampton of South Carolina.

Former Mayor John T. Baughman of Jeannette, President of the Westmoreland County Veterans' Association, gave an address of welcome and introduced Col. Daniel Ashworth, United States pension agent of Pittsburgh who delivered the principal address. The Rev. Fred Gordon, chaplain of the Fourth Infantry Sons of Veterans' Reserves of Pittsburgh, addressed the Sons of Veterans. The program has interspersed with music.

In the afternoon the Blues, composed of Companies B, M. F. and A, Sons of Veterans, commanded by Col. F. A. McClellan of Pittsburgh, and the Grays, with two companies, D and H, commanded by Capt. Gustav Schaff of Danville, engaged in the sham battle. Private Cronin of Kutztown was overcome by heat and was carried from the field on a stretcher. He was soon revived.

At a business meeting the following officers were elected: President, E. B. Sweeney, Greensburg; vice presidents, J. L. Stevenson, Mt. Pleasant; R. S. Elliott, New Florence; J. J. Huffman, New Alexandria; Jacob Mordock, Ligonsburg; secretary, Cyrus Smith, Irwin; treasurer, J. M. Reid, Greensburg; chaplain, the Rev. Dr. J. H. Pershing, Greensburg.

J. L. Mordock, one of the Vice Presidents, was reported dead and buried in the Civil War.

SELLS SMALL COAL TRACT ON REDSTONE

Ten Years Ago Sold Coal For $250 an Acre Now Receives $1,500
Per Acre.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 20.—E. Shearer of East Beau street, recently sold five acres of coal on Redstone creek, Fayette county, at a consideration of $1,500 an acre, an advance of $1,250 an acre on the price he received on surrounding coal about 10 years ago, when he reserved the five acres sold this week.

Mr. Shearer resided on Redstone creek ten years ago, having a large tract of land. Coal buyers besieged him to dispose of his coal, and he sold it at $250 an acre, reserving the fuel underlying the five acres where his buildings were located. Coal has steadily advanced in value, but Mr. Shearer has until recently refused to consider any bids for the coal under the five acre tract.

After selling his coal in Fayette county ten years ago Mr. Shearer purchased and occupied a place of about a mile east of Eighty-Four. Three or four years ago he removed to Washington, and about a year ago sold the surface of this farm to J. R. Ulmon. He reserved the coal which is gradually enhancing in value.

McKeesport Representatives Call on

CHARLESTON, Pa., Aug. 20.—A committee of three members from the McKeesport Chamber of Commerce was here to see Congressman John K. Tener relative to the improvement of the Youghiogheny river. The members of the committee were J. B. Ayers, President of the chamber; Dr. J. P. Blackburn and J. Audley Ayers. The United States engineers appointed to investigate the improvement project have reported favorably. The object of the visit here was to interest Mr. Tener, who is a member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee in the next Congress.

Had the Coin.

John Beals of Greensburg looked poor when he appeared in police court on a charge of drunkenness this morning but he made Burgess J. L. Evans dig deep in his jeans to produce change for the $20 bill offered in payment of the $3.50 fine. The Burgess had the coin, however, and pocketed the double-sawbuck.

HARRIMAN MUST LIVE MODERATELY.

Prof. Strumpel Says Railroad
King Would Otherwise Entirely Collapse.

ONLY IN COMPARATIVE HEALTH

Specialist, Known to Physicians the World Over, Diagnoses Harriman's
Case—Verdict That Financial Wizard's Life Labors Are Done

By Herbert White, Staff Correspondent.
Copyright by United Press, 1909.
VIENNA, Aug. 20.—E. H. Harriman, the wizard of finance, must cease to wield his wand, and if he expects to live, must forego all work, must lie quietly in bed for many hours each day and bask naked in the sun to restore his nerves, or suffer from a complete physical collapse.

This is the opinion of Prof. Strumpel, the famous specialist, who diagnosed the illness of the great railroad king, who has returned to his home in America. The Professor, who is known to physicians the world over as an authority, says that Harriman is restored to "comparative health," which may remain satisfactory only if he lives a most moderate life for the rest of his days.

He says that Harriman is suffering from lack of proper nourishment, as well as a general nervous debility and an exhaustion from overwork and under feeding. The professor says that Harriman must lie quietly in bed for hours a day taking the rest cure, must take food every two hours, and lie naked in the sun by which means he may hope to strengthen his nerves.

On days when there is no sunshine a "champagne bath" will be substituted. This is a bath charged with carbonic gas. It is considered strengthening to the nerves. The Professor says Harriman is suffering from no organic trouble. The thing that surprised Prof. Strumpel most was the half starved condition of Harriman. Better feeling is the most imperative need, he said.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(Special.)—The stock market is very nervous today and a tense feeling is everywhere apparent, while yesterday's depression is still in evidence. On every hand the question of "What is Harriman's real physical condition?" is affecting the market. The United Press exclusive cable from Vienna today, giving Prof. Strumpel's opinion of the railroad king's state of health, has aroused grave apprehension, and its effects are being felt on the market.

A NEW COAL FIELD IS TO BE OPENED

West Virginia and Pittsburgh Capitalists Buy 11,000 Acres of Kentucky Land.

A coal deal involving 11,000 acres in Kentucky near the West Virginia border line was closed at a meeting at the Hotel Henry, in Pittsburgh, when the Kentucky people holding the options sold the property to S. A. Moore and Charles Peter of Fairmont, W. Va., Joseph Showalter of Fairmont, W. Va., Joseph Barnes of Pittsburgh, and several other capitalists. The purchase price was on a basis of $30 an acre.

The block of coal is in an undeveloped field and adjoins the Fairmont Coal Company's holdings which have just been opened. The vein is a fine steam coal eight feet thick. It is the intention of the new owners to organize a company and develop the property. At least $50,000 will be spent in first development and the total investment before any coal is mined will stand the purchasers about $100,000.

KILLED THE SNAKES.

Laurelville Girl Sailed into Copperheads With a Club.

Miss Viola Kuhns of Laurelville has more than her full share of nerve as evidenced by what she did the other day while picking blackberries near her home. Instead of running away or even calling for help when she saw a bunch of copperhead snakes with two heads sticking up she sailed right in with a club and the result, to her amazement, was soon four dead snakes all big fellows, too.

WARRANT OUT FOR BANK CLERK

Round Up Expected Today of Men Indicted in Helms Loan Case—Developments in Financial Tangle Continue to Widen.

New York Aug. 20.—Ripples from the big splash in the financial pool created by the arrest of Donald L.
Perech, a note broker, on charges of grand larceny continue to widen—in spite of the fact that District Attorney Jerome has pronounced the case
"just a vulgar steal," and has reached Charles Katz, president of the Eastern Brewing company of Brooklyn, whose name has hovered about the edges of the case from its inception.

He was indicted by the grand jury for complicity in the alleged theft of 20,000 shares of copper stock which disappeared from the custody of the Windsor Trust company—with whom it had been deposited as collateral for a loan of $50,000 to M. M. Joyce, a broker for P. Augustus Helms—and bobbed up again in the curb market when Helms bought it back again.
W. L. Clark, the broker who approached the trust company for Joyce, was also indicted. He has been out on $12,500 bail, charged with grand larceny, for some days.

Another development was the issuance of a warrant for Sterling Dismalingham, the trust company's assistant, charged with a conspiracy of having accepted a gratuity of $250 for putting the loan through. To accept such a fee is a misdemeanor under the laws of this state.

Today a general round-up is expected before Judge Mulqueen of all those now under indictment. Katz, Clark and A. D. S. Adams, the Boston broker, also under indictment, will appear to plead and to receive the decision of the court on the amount of bail in which they shall be held.

to have a monster celebration Thursday, September 2. The committee made the announcement this morning and headed by Comrade J. J. Barnhart started out to boost the big show. His first action was to challenge Captain E. Dunn to run a 100 yard race, and with a pocket full of money he dared the veteran to take him up. Col. Barnhart says that he can run faster than a longer distance than any veteran in this neck of the woods.

Everybody is invited to the picnic this year. It will be held on the Gallagher farm, along the Leisenring road. The Union Veteran Legion and the Spanish-American war veterans have been asked to join in the picnic, besides a general invitation has been extended to the public.
Unlike other picnics of this kind there will be no speaking. Oratory will tabooed, but there will be many pastimes of a physical nature indulged in.

West Ridenour's drum corp will be out for the day and furnish music between times and a generally good time is expected.

old work will be done on next year.
Where new work was being done along the railroad there was much damage done, where grading was being done or new tracks being laid. On the E. & O. east of here there were several washed out spots, and a delay in traffic during the afternoon was to be looked for.

The large barn owned by the Railways at Meyer was struck by lightning during the storm and completely destroyed. It was a 50x150 structure and was filled with this season's crop of hay. All the live stock was in the mises at the time and this probably saved them from being cremated.
There was no possible way to save the barn. The storm was particularly strong in that section.

About Scottsdale the storm was also very heavy, with violent rains and vivid lightning. One bolt struck at the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry company's plant and caused a good deal of excitement. The rainfall washed the streets clear, and on Market street a newly paved one, a torrent of water poured down, and left the paving at a couple of low places, washing badly below the street.

A peculiar feature of the storm is that it was another one which ragged most violently in the upper Connelville section and extended with great force as far as Greensburg and Young wood the rain was terrific.

Toward Uniontown and in the Southern and there was little rain.
The last heavy rains that visited this section are reported to have been very much lighter in the Lower Connelville region.

In Connelville many cellars were flooded by this forenoon's heavy rain fall, and this afternoon many people citizens in gum boots have been busy clearing out their cellars. Health Officer Allen Hyatt made an inspection of the town in general following the storm.

HER PHYSICIAN ADVISED

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbus, Ohio.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all my troubles. My change of life. My doctor told me it was good, and since taking it I feel so much better that I can do all my work again. I think
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a fine remedy for all women's troubles, and I never forget to tell my friends what it has done for me."
—Mrs. E. HANSON, 304 East Long St.,
Columbus, Ohio.

Another Woman Helped.
Granville, Ohio.—"I was passing through the change of life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to health and I feel like a new woman. I think it is gold to me. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter." —Mrs.
CHARLES BANCAY, R.F.D., Granville, Ohio.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing illu-pericular to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

AERIAL NAVIGATION

The Time May Come When Flying Machines Will Be In Common Use.

The great strides that have been made in aerial navigation, during the last few years, lead such enthusiasts as the Wright brothers to predict that the time will come when flying machines will largely supersede recent modes of transportation. This may be true, but money will be just as necessary to a comfortable existence whether we fly through the air or continue to walk or ride on the solid earth. The way to make certain of having money is to save it, and Savings Accounts may be opened with ville with $1. Four per cent interest.

MOVING DAY.

J. W. Brown Does Not Care About the Friday Hoedown.

Would you move on Friday? Takes a lot of nerve to buck against the old superstitions doesn't it? Well, Superintendent J. W. Brown of the West Penn bank is a big superstitious and decided to move into his new home on Vine street, this morning.

About the third wagon load of furniture was well under way when the storm blew up. That should almost convince the most common sense man that Friday is a bad day on which to move. Anyway, he didn't try it on Friday the thirtieth.

FRIDAY EVENING.....AUGUST 20, 1909.

Harking Back to Bryan.

The very voluminous, very plausible, very Bryan and very able Johnstown Democrat insists that all Tariff is Graft. It has much to say in support of this proposition, but its remarks are not such as need to be taken seriously. As we have already pointed out PROTECTION IS AN ESTABLISHED AMERICAN POLICY THE WISDOM OF WHICH HAS BEEN PROVEN BY EVENTS. The Democrat, however, makes another statement which perhaps merits our more serious attention. It says:

In this connection we cannot refrain from harking back to 1890. In that year the editor of the Conneltsville Democrat party and threw in his lot with the Gold Democrats. He professed that he bolted on account of Bryan and Free Silver. For a long time he loudly protested his Democracy and he was extremely loyal to Grover Cleveland. Yet Grover Cleveland was elected in 1892 on a platform which denounced protection in unmeasured terms, declaring it to be unconstitutional, a fraud and a scheme of robbery. The Courier supported Cleveland on that platform. It stood with Cleveland all through his administration and it was with Cleveland up to the very hour it flopped clear over into the Republican camp.

Was the editor of The Courier false to his real convictions in 1892 or is he false to them now? Was it party exigency which induced his support of Cleveland in his war on protection or is it party exigency which is now impelling him to make war for the policy which Cleveland sought to destroy and which he might have diverted from his main purpose by the interests when they raised the silver issue as a means of saving the trust? He cannot have been right both times. And we have too high an opinion of his intellectual capacity to believe that his real convictions have undergone a change. But we confess that we are unable to account for his attitude he now assumes regarding the tariff when we remember the attitude he held when Cleveland was trying to uproot the whole system.

The political career of The Courier is an open book and there is nothing therein contained of which we are ashamed. We welcome the barkers and their harking. We fear them no more than we fear the barkers and their barking.

The Courier did not in 1896 desert the Democratic financial principles which it always advocated. A SOUND MONEY PAPER IT HAD BEEN AND A SOUND MONEY PAPER IT REMAINED. In 1892, it supported Cleveland and advocated Tariff Revision; in 1908, it supported Taft and advocated Tariff Revision; but it did not, in 1892 or in 1908, nor has it since, ever endorsed a SENSELESS HORIZONTAL REDUCTION OF TARIFF DUTIES, MUCH LESS FREE TRADE.

Free Trade is no more an ancient Democratic doctrine than was Free Silver. THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF THE FATHERS WAS NOT A FREE TRADE PARTY, and Pennsylvania was never within our political life a Free Trade State. ITS GREATEST COMMONER, SAMUEL JACKSON RANDALL, WAS A PROTECTIONIST.

The Courier did not endorse or uphold the Cleveland Tariff Revision, and if it ever said anything that seemed like commendation of this bill it was subsequently convinced of the error of its position. The Cleveland Tariff was followed by financial disaster, idle industries, suffering workmen. The Protective Tariff enacted under McKinley restored prosperity and happiness to the people. "A wise man sometimes changes his mind; a fool, never." Our mind can hardly be said to have had any change, but if it had IT WAS A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER. It was a change prompted by Experience, that dearest but best of teachers. It was not a matter of exigency, but of honesty; it was not a matter of interest, but of sincerity; it was not a matter of graft, but of human concern for the public welfare.

The Courier is not an example of that misdirected energy which clings to the FORM when the SUBSTANCE has departed, which worships the NAME after the FAITH has become dissolute and ribald mockery, which follows FALSE PROPHETS into POLITICAL DEGENERACY, which sacrifices the PUBLIC WEAL to a POLITICAL FETTER, which sinks COUNTRY in PARTY. We leave that for the Bryan Barkers.

A DEMOCRATIC INDEMNITY.

The Democratic County Committee didn't have a full house, but the inmates of the Democratic house had a full dinner with the compliments of Ex-Sheriff Frock. If this becomes established as a custom the Democratic County Committee meetings may assume their old time proportions.

The Democracy of Fayette county has been demoralized ever since the Boy Orator of the Platte brought to the Presidential game, and some inducement besides political duty has become necessary to insure a good average attendance.

If the moral tickets had some bar checks attached they would perhaps be more Democratic and more popular.

THE GRAPE ALLEY BOUNDARY DISPUTE.

The meeting of the Town Council and the representative of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to consider the disputed boundary line on Grape alley was amiable in discussion and unanimous in the conclusion that the claims of the railway company are well-founded.

But there remains the question whether the peaceful possession and occupancy by the borough of the alley as now laid down does not operate as an abandonment of the railroad's right and the confirmation of the borough's claims.

The question remains in statu quo, but the meantime is a good time to discuss cooperation with a view to further improvements.

SANITARY CIRCUMLOCUTION.

There seems to be a vast deal too much circumlocution about the health department of Conneltsville.

The highways and byways of the borough are permitted to reek with the sickening and disease-breeding stench of decaying animals, because it is the duty of the Street Commissioner to cart them off in the borough wagons, after having been officially notified to do so by the Secretary of the Board of Health upon information of the Health Officer.

The Health Officer considers the complaint and sometimes forgets it. When it goes to the Secretary it may find him out of town. When it finally reaches the Street Commissioner the cause of complaint has either been removed by a kindly rainfall into the Young river for the benefit of the community below us, or has inflicted all the possible damage it can upon the health of the citizens.

It is evident that sanitary protection is not summary enough.

TIMELY ADVICE

TO FLEEING FARMERS.

Many Conneltsville region farmers who sold their coal lands some years ago bought farms in Washington county and removed there in the full confidence that they would not be disturbed by the invading industrial army again.

But they are now confronted with the prospect of coal and coke developments in Washington county which will make agricultural conditions quite as smoky and sooty as they had become in Fayette county when those farmers escaped.

The farmer who sells his coal and seeks to escape from it should consult the reports of the United States Geological and State Geological Surveys.

Bulls are sometimes furious and sometimes funny. It was a rather funny bull which broke into our editorial column yesterday. In discussing the black powder strike at the Monongah mines we naturally located it in West Virginia, where the first and greatest Monongah mine is located, when as a matter of fact the strike is at the Monongah mines in the Monongahela valley. We apologize to West Virginia.

The New Fall Suits and Skirts

Showing this week the first of the New Suits and Skirts for the coming Fall wear. Suit prices start at $20.00 and Skirt prices at $5.00 and that's pretty near all we have to say about prices except that for good reasons we are able to do business on a very narrow margin of profit and we believe that we have Suits here at prices that you cannot afford to miss seeing and examining if you have a Suit want this coming Fall. We leave it for you to say, all things considered, that the same money will not buy you a better Suit here than elsewhere. We believe that the Suits that we have sold in seasons past will help to a bigger and better Suit business here to merit this increased business and we ask you to come and see whether we have or not. We call special attention to the workmanship on these Suits. The plain tailored effects where fine work shows. The firms from whom we buy these have a reputation the best in the market, and you can easily tell the difference between these and the ordinary tailored Suits.

Our alteration room is in charge of a competent party who knows how to make the little changes necessary to insure a perfect fit. You know how our invitation to see these Suits reads. Whether you wish to buy now or later, here or elsewhere we ask you to come and examine these Suits and learn the prices. You will be welcome and we'll be more than pleased to have your opinion of these new Fall garments.

A THROAT CUTTING WAS THE REPORT

Circulated Over Scottdale
Regarding C. S. Graft
and His Wife.

BUT STORY WAS EXAGGERATED

W. S. Lessig Who Lost Hand in Rolla
Recovering From Accident—Township
School Board Making Improvements on Buildings.

SCOTTSVILLE, Aug. 20.—Excitement was caused here last evening by the story that C. S. Graft, known by the nickname of "Nitt," had attempted to cut his wife's throat at their home on Homestead avenue, and that he had succeeded in inflicting a long gash down one side of the woman's neck, with a razor. The encounter was reported to be the outcome of a too liberal indulgence in stimulating beverages. It was, however, denied, and it seems from all the information to be had this morning, that the woman inflicted the wound herself.

School Board to Meet.
The Scottsville Board of Education will meet tomorrow afternoon to consider matters relative to the reopening of school for the year.

Thrashers Are Out.
Joseph Bird and his sons of near Chantown are travelling over the country near here, with their thrasher. This year they have bought an entirely new machine with pneumatic stacker and all the improvements. They thrashed for Jacob Graft near town today.

William Lessig's Condition.
William S. Lessig who lost his right hand in the cold rolls at the Scottsville plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company on Wednesday night is getting along as well as may be expected. The mill men who were with him at the time have hardly recovered from the effects of the terrible accident when their fellow workman's arm was drawn into the rolls, mangle the hand flat, while he screamed in agony, and the entire mill was stopped to remove the mangled hand. The straightening of a sheet and the catching of his heavy glove caused the accident. Mr. Lessig has had hard and discouraging luck.

Dr. McCombs in Town.
Dr. Edgar McCombs, son of Mrs. McCombs and the late Milton A. McCombs, who is building up a nice medical practice at Ford, was in town a short time last evening, calling on his mother and friends.

Market Street in Use.
The paving of Market street from Broadway to Grove and the paving of the latter street from Market over to Pittsburg street makes a nearly completed paving of the town's main streets. Market street is now being much used as a thoroughfare, and the street is greatly improved by the paving. An early attempt should be made to pave Grant avenue from Spring street to Broadway, as that is one of the busiest streets in the winter to be found. As the Borough building and the Borough center are located there the short piece of street is much used, and a great deal of mud carried onto other streets. The condition of the street makes it bad for those who have weighing to be done.

Improved His Home.
Frank Harris who bought a house beyond the White school house in rapid improvement of his property. He has built a new porch to the house, and repainted the building, so that now it is one of the finest homes in the rapidly growing section. Mr. Harris is also grading his yard and other who are fixing up his place.

Painted the School House.
The East Huntingdon Township School Board has been renovating and repainting the school buildings of the district, and the White school house on the edge of town, is one that came in for improvement. A new slate roof has been put on the building and painters yesterday completed the painting of the exterior of the building, making a vast improvement in its appearance.

GHOST STORY ATTRACTS CROWDS

Walter Grever Asserts That He Saw Mysterious Hobbegill While Staying With Corpses.

SMITHFIELD, Aug. 20.—Walter Grever was in town last night. He attracted a crowd around him to hear his recital of the ghost story. His version of it was about the same as appeared in The Courier. He is firm in his conviction that there was a supernatural appearance there that night.

Mrs. Alma Hush, an aunt of the deceased, who was there that night was so worked up over it that she refused to stay in the house any longer and Grever had to hitch a horse to a buggy and take her to her home at Fairchance after the midnight hour.

SAW INTERESTING SIGHTS IN YORK COUNTY

Connellsville Coke Region Men Talk Interestingly of a Vacation Spent in a Dunkard Community.

J. W. Woodward, a well known railroader of Connellsville, arrived home yesterday from a month's vacation spent on the farm of Nicely Walmyer of Stewartstown, York county, where he saw many sights interesting to a citizen of the Connellsville coke region. One of them was the manner in which men and women work there, where the women work on the farms, and at one place near York, he saw Edith Miller, a pretty Dunkard girl, in the oats field, where two men were cradling oats, while the little, sun-browned girl, followed gracefully behind binding up the two swaths of oats that the cradlers brought down. It went the seasons game for making a man and the girl's complexion and form would have been a prize advertisement for any physical culture school. The girl raking oats had a hand mallet of hay making fame surpassed.

The community is made up mostly of Dunkards, a frugal, thrifty, industrious and hospitable class of people, the women wearing queer little caps, that often sets off a face of superlative beauty. Industry is everywhere. At one place Mr. Woodward visited, the husband was a truck gardener, while the wife was employed in a laundry. They said that there were many such instances in that section. "I don't understand that," said Mr. Woodward. "We don't do that way where I come from."

"We are working to get a home," spoke up the woman. The explanation was sufficient and illuminating of the principle that guides these people. The traveller comes back with a heavy coat of tan, and bright eyes from his vacation, and he explains these things by the fact that he took a turn, not a heavy one though, he says in the fields. The crops of York county are not up to the usual mark of those productive lands. The other day at Walmyer's they dug to long rows of potatoes, and the vacationist looked up the potatoes. There were just enough sacks of them to fill a wagon bed. The crop is almost a total failure, the farmers say.

It was the same way last year, a long dry spell. But the German farmers are optimists. "There are two bad seasons," they say, but next year will be a fine one. There will be big crops of all kinds next year. There were three days of rain this week, and this rainfall will do a lot of good.

Tobacco is the principal crop, but this year it is poor. There are plenty of apples, but it will be a short and small yield, since the apples are falling fast and the ground is thick with them. Insect pests and dry weather have worked against the apple crop. Watermelons, musk melons and cantaloupes are grown in abundance there. You can buy a watermelon that you

BAD ACCIDENT AT AUTO RACES.

Two Lives Lost and Two Records Broken at Indianapolis.

DRIVER AND ASSISTANT KILLED

Going at Terrific Rate of Speed On New Speedway Big Car Crashes
Into Fence and Occupants Are Pinned Under Machine.

Indianapolis, Aug. 20.—Two lives were lost and two records broken during the inauguration of the Indianapolis motor speedway. William A. Bourque, driver of the Knox car in the 250-mile race, and Harry Holcomb, his mechanic, were killed in the frenzied carnival of speed.

Two records had been broken and the first day of racing over the famous track bid fair to be an unequalled success when a pull was cast over the crowd of 12,000 excited spectators by the sudden death of Bourque and Holcomb.

The Knox car was in second place and had covered nearly 150 miles when the crash came. Coming down the home stretch the car suddenly swerved and tore into the fence at the left of the track, turning completely over and pinning its two occupants beneath it. Both men were alive when taken from under the inflated machine, but Bourque died in the ambulance on the way to the emergency hospital. Holcomb lived a few minutes longer but was dead soon after he arrived at the hospital.

Wheel Slips From Driver's Hands.
According to the story told by Private Frank Braudner, Company H, Second regiment, Indiana national guard, who was nearest to the scene of the accident and had a narrow escape from injury, something caused both men to suddenly turn and lurch behind. As they did so the steering wheel slipped from Bourque's hands and he threw his arms helplessly in the air. Then came the crash.

Bourque was twenty-six years old and lived at Springfield, Mass. Holcomb was twenty-two years old and lived at Grandville, Mass.

Albert Denison, the racing partner of Bourque, collapsed after the accident and the services of a physician were required. The sight of the two men lying dead was too much for the friend of both, who had been called upon so often to face danger of death in similar manner.

Louis Chevrolet, the French driver of the Buick team, was led into the hospital almost blinded with the tar and dust from the track shortly after the two men had died.

Fast Time Made.
Barney Oldfield, driving a high power Buick, covered a mile in 43.1 seconds, breaking De Palma's mark of 51 seconds, and Louis Chevrolet, in a Buick, negotiated ten miles in the marvelous time of 8:56.4-10, cutting Oldfield's time of 9:12. Both these are new American track marks.

Robert Burman, in a Buick car, won the 250-mile race, the feature of the day and the contest which cost Bourque and Holcomb their lives. The winner's time was 4:38:67.4-10—slow because of the many accidents that marred the race.

The death of the two men caused the American Automobile association to issue an ultimatum to the owners of the big track that certain changes must be made or the sanction for the races will be withdrawn.

ONLY 20 MILES AN HOUR

Taft's Chauffeur Instructed Not to Exceed That Limit.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 20.—Stories that have gone abroad about the great speed at which President Taft's chauffeur takes the chief magistrate along the smooth oiled roadways about Beverly have caused the summer White House man to be flooded with letters from timid admirers of Mr. Taft urging that Robinson, who drives the president's car the greater part of the time, be directed to exercise more caution. Some of the writers have enclosed clippings from newspapers telling of fatal automobile accidents both in this country and abroad.

It is a fact that the president does like to go fast when out in a machine and the day is fine, but to reassure those who have taken the interest to write Robinson has specific instructions not to exceed twenty miles per hour.

FOUGHT WITH DEVIL FISH

Baltimorean Had Narrow Escape Off Newfoundland Coast.

New York, Aug. 20.—Joseph Lorber and William H. Buckholz, young Baltimoreans who arrived here on the Red Cross liner Roseland from three months' camping out on the shores of Conception bay, Newfoundland, brought with them a tale of a fight off the Newfoundland coast with a devil fish which was drawing Buckholz down to his death when Lorber dived and killed the monster.

They had hooked a big horse mackerel from their boat and the fish in its struggle had pulled Buckholz into the water.

MILITIAMEN HARD AT WORK IN GREAT WAR GAME IN MASSACHUSETTS.

UNPACKING
TENTS

SOLDIERS ON A HIKE

UNLOADING HORSES
AND BAGGAGE TRAINS

Although the primary and main purpose of the great war game in Massachusetts has been to test the possibility of repelling an armed force which had succeeded, theoretically, in gaining a foothold on the American coast and the "game" was planned to be the greatest thing of the sort ever seen in the United States, the movements of the militiamen have been intended to train them under actual war conditions. With that end in view the men are compelled to take care of themselves in the field and in camp. The training also includes drill in taking care of horses and supplies. The smartness and vigilance with which some of the volunteer soldiers from New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and the District of Columbia, members of the "red," or invading army, succeeded in getting their horses and baggage from the steamers used as transports aroused favorable comment by the regular officers detailed as spectators. Among the most enjoyable experiences for the men have been the long "hikes," or tramps, through the woods and fields.

$1,000,000 IN BAD MONEY.

Trunk Full of Counterfeit Mexican Pesos Captured at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 20.—Dreams of wealth centered in a brass bound trunk containing a million dollars in counterfeit Mexican pesos were shattered for John C. and Marion Roberts, brothers, when Deputy United States Marshal William Blaydes arrested John Roberts in Shelby county with the money in his possession. Since Roberts' arrest there has been unraveled a remarkable tale of attempted financial buccaneering, rivaling one of the boldest exploits in the making of spurious currency.

John Roberts, sitting in the office of the secret service bureau, coolly said that he would plead guilty at the October term of the federal court and seemed resigned about spending a majority of his years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga. He had only wanted to get rich, he said.

It was through Marion Roberts that the counterfeiters were apprehended and their plan to defraud Mexicans of $1,000,000 exposed. Marion Roberts some days ago offered a Louisville broker high commissions to dispose of some Mexican money for him. The broker notified the chief of police, who at once enlisted secret service men and the trap to catch Marion Roberts was successfully sprung. The police obtained from Marion the information which led to the descent upon his brother.

Have Information That May Lead to Capture of Petrosino's Slaying.

New York, Aug. 20.—With valuable information about the strength and operations of the Blackhand in Italy, Detectives Tony Vaccaro and John H. Crowley of the New York police department, who went abroad after the assassination of Lieutenant Joseph Petrosino to continue an investigation the latter had begun, arrived here on the steamship Italia.

After Police Commissioner Baker had conferred with the detectives he said that their report had been decidedly encouraging and might lead to the detection of the assassin of Lieutenant Petrosino.

SUIT ENTERED

BY THE WRIGHTS.

Aviators Allege Infringements of Patent Rights.

ASK COURT TO FIX DAMAGES

Claiming Sole Right to Invention on Heavier-Than-Air Machines, The American Aviators Complain That Others Are Imitators.

New York, Aug. 20.—Wilbur and Orville Wright, the aviators, have entered suit in the United States circuit court here against the Aeronautic society of this city, charging infringement of patent rights on their aeroplane inventions.

The Wrights complain that the society procured from the Herring-Curtis company and from Glenn H. Curtiss flying machines alleged to be infringing the Wrights' patents and secured Curtiss to give public exhibitions for which an admission fee was charged.

The Wrights demand that the infringing machine be turned over to them for destruction, and, in addition, asks the court to assess damages for threefold the amount of whatever losses they are found to have suffered by reason of the infringement and the public exhibition or rental of the infringing machine. A hearing in the suit will probably be held early in October.

Aeronautic experts here generally viewed the suit as in the nature of a test case, brought to determine legally whether the Wright patents cover at least all aeroplanes constructed along similar lines to theirs. Regarded in this light, it was pointed out, the suit is likely to have a most important bearing on the development of aerial navigation. The Herring-Curtiss machine is at present the only American rival of importance in the commercial field; but practically all the experimental heavier-than-air machines which have met with any degree of success in this country have been constructed along lines which apparently the Wrights regard as preempted by their patents.

In the bill of complaint the Wrights set forth that their claims to the sole rights in heavier-than-air flying machines of this type "have been recognized by the United States government, which has purchased some of the machines; while the sovereignty of other countries have similar acknowledgments."

Following a meeting of the Aeronautic society last night, President Lee S. Burridge gave out a statement in which the suit brought by the Wright brothers was defined as a friendly process. "The Wrights are honorary members of the Aeronautic society," said Mr. Burridge, "and very friendly to us. Their suit has been brought to determine where rival aeronauts stand."

CLAIMANTS FOR FORTUNE.

Family of Nine Claims Connection With Pittsburgh Miser.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 20.—Affairs of Peter Liebach, the Northside hermit, man of wealth and supposed imbecile, took interesting turns in two directions when simultaneously with an application for a guardianship the first claim for the man's wealth on behalf of Pittsburghers was put forward.

Attorney William A. Golden, in a letter to City Solicitor Charles A. O'Brien, declared that nine children of a dead paternal uncle of Liebach are the closest kin and that eight of these are residents of the Twenty-sixth ward, Northside.

Director E. R. Walters of the department of charities and correction had Attorney Robert T. McElroy prepare a petition to be presented to court asking that the Southside Trust company be appointed guardian of Liebach. Dr. Walters said: "The object is to have the trust company appointed Liebach's guardian, with the understanding that it will hold his wealth in trust for him. He to receive the income until he is able to conduct his own affairs intelligently. The income will be at least $2,500 a year, which ought to be enough to keep him nicely."

MARKED "STRICTLY FRESH"

Brood of Fourteen Chickens Found in Consignments of Eggs.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Chicken fanciers and commission merchants marvelled when a brood of fourteen chickens alive and well was found in a case of eggs shipped to Chicago from Missouri. The case was marked "strictly fresh," but when it arrived after a heated journey in a boxcar the downy little chicks were discovered on the top layer of pastboard within the case.

Indisputable evidence that the eggs had hatched in transit was seen when the case was opened after sundry chirps from its lively contents had attracted attention.

LUTHERANS HOLD ANNUAL REUNION.

Despite Threatening Weather
Several Thousand
Are Present.

LIGONIER VALLEY REUNION

Is Held at Idlewild Park—Rumored That Many Tents Were Stolen During the Encampment of the Second Brigade.

SOMERSET, Aug. 20.—The annual reunion of the Lutherans of Somerset county was held in Edgewood Grove, Thursday. In spite of the threatening weather several thousand people were in attendance and the brains were crowded all day. There were various amusements provided and excellent concerts by the Citizens' Band of Meyersdale were much appreciated. A feature was a chorus of about 200 voices which rendered several selections. The following were the speakers: Rev. William S. Freese, D. D., of the Deaconess Mother-house of Baltimore, Md., who spoke on "Lutheran Loyalty"; Rev. J. Hess Wagner, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church of Somerset, whose subject was "The Young People and the Church"; Prof. John I. Woodruff, L. L. D., of Susquehanna University, who spoke on "The Lutheran Church and Education"; Charles Geesey, Esq., of Altoona, Treasurer of the Allegheny Synod, whose topic was "The Layman's Movement."

This reunion is an annual event and not only residents of Somerset county attend but persons who formerly resided in this county, many of whom come from a considerable distance. The reunion held on Thursday is said to be one of the most successful in recent years.

The annual Ligonier Valley reunion was held at Idlewild park near Latrobe, Westmoreland county on Thursday. A large number of Somerset people spent the day in the beautiful park.

The Woodmen's convention at Johnstown held on Thursday was attended by Somerset Camp No. 341 M. W. A. en masse.

A report is current here that a number of detectives are in Somerset looking for several persons who are alleged to have stolen about 50 tents from the Second Brigade N. C. P. during the recent encampment. There are severe penalties annexed to this offense but so far there seem to have been no arrests made. It is stated that the tents were stolen from the cars on which they were to be shipped to the armories after the breaking up of the encampment.

HAVE YOU TRIED OUR CLASSIFIED ADVERTS?

BUSINESS BOOM IS ALREADY ON.

Prediction Made by Senator Penrose Quickly Followed by Improvement.

GOSSIP ABOUT THE CAMPAIGN

Leading Exponent of Country's Lumber Interests Lauds Senator Penrose as Wise and Safe Leader, and One Who Has Remembered His Country's Notable Service.

The prediction made by Senator Boies Penrose just after the adoption of the new tariff act, to the effect that by next fall there would be in evidence a tremendous business boom is already being fulfilled. According to reports now being received by the Bureau of Manufactures, at the capital, from all over the country, the prosperity boom resulting from the passage of the tariff bill is increasing daily in strength and volume. The customs receipts show that the wave is gathering force, but the definite data of orders filled by big manufacturing concerns in every section of the country give clinching proof that the boom is not a spasmodic gasp, but a thing of backbone that will last for a long time to come.

Senator Penrose said further: "There is hardly an item in the tariff bill in which Pennsylvania is not interested. The great iron and steel interests, the manufacturers of silk and cotton goods, the leather and lumber trades and the hosiery manufacturers will all benefit by the law. Already we have reports from all parts of the State, of the resumption of plants that had long been idle, and I believe that before the November election Pennsylvania will witness the greatest prosperity wave in her history."

Senator Penrose intended after the adjournment of Congress to go to the Montana forests and mountains in search of the recreation he is so richly entitled to after his arduous labors during the extra session. But instead he has decided to divide his time between Philadelphia and Atlantic City until the opening of the campaign for September. In commenting on the political situation, Senator Penrose said the reports he had received all indicate the election of the full Republican ticket in November. "There are no dissensions among the active men in the Republican organization," said he. "Reports from every quarter of the State assure a sweeping victory for the candidates on the excellent ticket nominated by the Republican State convention." Senator Penrose does not expect to take the stump this fall, but he has engagements to visit Pittsburgh and other points in the State, where he will get in touch with Republican committees and others. This being an "off year" he remarked that he did not look for much of a speaking campaign.

While no plans for the State campaign have as yet been definitely determined upon, it is probable that Senator A. B. Sisson, of Erie, the nominee for Auditor General, and former Senator J. A. Stober, of Lancaster, the candidate for State Treasurer, will accept invitations which they have received to visit different counties in the State. Judge Robert von Moschler, the nominee for the Supreme Bench, who is spending his vacation in Nova Scotia, will take no part in the campaign. He will return to Philadelphia in time to resume his place upon the Common Pleas bench on September 8.

Col. Wesley R. Andrews, chairman of the Republican State committee, has since the adjournment of Congress been making his headquarters at Atlantic City, and from that point has opened correspondence with the chairman of all the Republican county committees, to the end that when he formally opens the State committee rooms in South Broad street, Philadelphia, the first week in September he will have all the details of the political situation in every section of the Commonwealth well in hand.

At Williamsport, on Wednesday, August 24, there will be a "renewal" of the formal notification of the Democratic candidates. And that will be about all there will be to that despite the usual Democratic clutter to the effect that an "energetic campaign" is to be waged.

"A student of finance and a stalwart supporter of the industrial and commercial interests of the country" is how The American Lumberman characterizes Senator Penrose. This publication is the leading exponent of the American lumber industry. Continuing, The Lumberman has this to say of Pennsylvania's seagull Senator: "Physically and mentally, Senator Penrose is a remarkable man. Outside the Senate chamber, on Pennsylvania avenue, wherever he may be seen, people turn to look at him. He is a reticent man, somewhat abstracted in his manner, yet demurely. His career for his health by an abundance of exercise; he seems the strongest, car, stages and automobiles which save him the ordinary public man, and walks the miles back and forth between the capital and the New England, where he resides while in Washington. In his hotel he is not exclusive, but most frequently takes his meals in the grillroom, where any one who wishes may approach him and receive a ready and pleasant welcome. He is reserved in his manner but does not avoid or repulse approach."

"Senator Penrose has the reputation in the Senate of being a student of public affairs, of being a tireless worker on committees and in the study of any subject under consideration, particularly if it is of special interest to Pennsylvania. His counsel is highly valued and he is emphatically a leader, yet he is not considered an orator, and day after day will pass with but one word from Senator Penrose except his 'yes' or 'no' when the roll is called. Yet when he went to the Senate he had the reputation in Philadelphia and his State of being a ready and convincing debater, and an orator of no mean rank."

"In the Senate he seems to feel that there are others who pride themselves on their dratoy and so content himself with a less conspicuous, though no less influential role; yet when occasion arises, he speaks to the point in a way which makes the Senate, under the most oppressive summer conditions, 'sit up and take notice.' Such was the case a few weeks ago when he said a few words which were telegraphed to every paper in the country."

"Senator Penrose, partly because of his long service, but more because of his marked ability, has a prominent place on a number of the most important standing committees. All his committees are important and active. By virtue of his chairmanship of the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads, he is a member of the great committee on public expenditures. He is too active and hard-working, at all times and under all conditions, to accept a place on ornamental or dormant committees. Senator Penrose is most likely to be the next chairman of the Senate committee on finance. He has an exceptional opportunity to prepare himself for the work. He is as industrious as a man can be, a great student always, and has familiarized himself with the schedules in the new tariff bill as few, if any, of the members, except the chairman, have done."

"It is an honor to the leadership in the committee on finance that Senator Penrose during the special session performed notable service to the industrial and commercial interests of the country. He is a conservative, and a loyal partisan, but he adds to these characteristics a knowledge of both principles and practical facts which make him more than a partisan, more than a part of the organization. He is, because of his knowledge, experience and courage, a wise and safe leader."

AVERTS COLLISION IN AIR

contents of aviation week by skillfully guiding his machine above another aeroplane and averting a collision in the air that seemed imminent. The feat was accomplished for the first time in history. The behavior of the craft was maneuvering at the same time. All were flying rapidly when suddenly Curtiss saw M. Dumasse in an Antoinette monoplane approaching at right angles and on the same level with him. As quick as a flash Curtiss realized the danger and, elevating his plane, his machine instantly shot upward and soared safely over the Frenchman. The thousands of spectators who lined the aerodrome watched the maneuver with bated breath, but when they saw it successfully and brilliantly carried out they applauded the American wildly.

AROUND WORLD IN 41 DAYS

Schoolboys Arrive in New York After Circling the Globe.

New York, Aug. 20.—The Cunard liner Mauretania is anchored off quarantine after a run over the short course which now gives her all records for eastward and westward trips. She did the 27,633 knots in 41 days 14 hours and 38 minutes against the best performance of her sister ship, the Lusitania, over the same course of 41 days and 16 hours flat.

Two New York schoolboys, Walter Brown and John Munnich, who have been sent around the world for a record by a New York newspaper, were taken off the Mauretania on a special tug and brought to the city. They had completed the circuit of the globe in 41 days 8 hours—a new record and almost half the time set by Jules Verne in his romance, "Around the World in Eighty Days."

CHAPTER V.

The Crawling Stone.
The valley of Crawling Stone river marked for more than a decade the dead line between the overland route of the white man and the last country of the Sioux. It was long after the building of the first line before even the engineer's reconnaissance was made in the Crawling Stone country. Then, within ten years, three surveys were made, two on the north side of the river and one on the south side, by interests seeking a coast outlet. Three reports made in this way gave varying estimates of the expense of putting a line up the valley, but the three, coincided in this, that the cost would be prohibitive. Engineers of reputation had in this respect agreed, but Glover, who looked after such work for Bucks, remained unconvinced, and before McCloud was put into the operating department on the Short Line he was asked by Glover to run a preliminary up Crawling Stone valley. Before the date of his report the conclusions reached by other engineers had stood unchallenged.

The valley was not unknown to McCloud. His first year in the mountains, in which, fitted as thoroughly as he could fit himself for his profession, he had come west and found himself unable to get work, had been spent hunting, fishing, and wandering, often cold and often hungry, in the upper Crawling Stone country. The valley in itself offers to a constructionist no insuperable obstacles; the difficulty is presented in the canyon where the river bursts through the Elbow mountains. South of this canyon, McCloud, one day on a hunting trip, found himself with two Indians pocketed in the rough country, and was planning how to escape passing a night away from camp when his companions led him past a vertical wall of rock 1,000 feet high, split into a narrow dottle down which they rode, as it broadened out, for miles. They emerged upon an open country that led without a break into the valley of the Crawling Stone below the canyon. Afterward, when he had become a railroad man, McCloud, sitting at a campfire with Glover and Morris Blood, heard them discussing the coveted and impossible line up the valley. He had been taken into the circle of constructionists and was told of the earlier reports against the line. He thought he knew something about the Elbow mountains, and disputed the findings, offering in two days' ride to take the men before him to the pass called by the Indians the Box, and to take them through it. Glover called it a find, and a big one, and though more immediate matters in the strategy of territorial control then came before him, the preliminary was ordered and McCloud's findings were approved. McCloud himself was soon afterward engaged in the problems of operating the mountain division; but the dream of his life was to build the Crawling Stone line with a maximum grade of eight-tenths through the Box.

The prettiest stretch of Crawling Stone valley lies within 20 miles of Medicine Bend. There it lies widest, and has the pick of water and grass between Medicine Bend and the Mission mountains. Cattlemen went into the Crawling Stone country before the Indians had wholly left it. The first house in the valley was the Stone ranch, built by Richard Dunning, and it still stands overlooking the town of Dunning at the junction of the Frenchman creek and the Crawling Stone. The Frenchman is fed by unfailing springs, and when by summer sun and wind every smaller stream in the middle basin has been licked dry, the Frenchman runs cold and swift between its russet hills. Richard Dunning, being on the border of the Indian country, built for his ranch-house a rambling stone fortress. He had chosen it afterward proved, and it still stands in the valley, and he stocked it with cattle when yearlings could be picked up in Medicine Bend at ten dollars a head. He got together a great body of valley land when it could be had for the asking, and became the rich man of the Long Range. The Dunnings were Kentuckians. Richard was a bridge engineer and builder, and under Brodie built some of the first bridges on the mountain division, notably the great wooden bridge at Smoky Creek. Richard brought out his nephew, Lance Dunning. He taught Lance bridge-building, and Murray Sinclair, who began as a cowboy on the Stone ranch, learned bridge-building from Richard Dunning. The Dunnings both came west, though at different times, as young men and unmarried, and as far as western women were concerned, might always have remained so. But a Kentucky cousin, Betty, one of the Fairchild Dunnings, related to Richard within the sixth or eighth degree, came to the mountains for her health. Betty's mother had brought Richard up as a boy, and Betty, when he left Fairchild, was a baby. But Dick—as they knew him at home—and the mother wrote back and forth, and he persuaded her to send Betty out for a trip, promising he would send her back in a year a well woman.

Betty came with only her colored maid, old Fanny Dunning, who had taken her from the nurse's arms when she was born, and taken care of her ever since. The two—the tall Kentucky girl and the bent, mammy—arrived at the Stone ranch one day in June, and Richard, done then with bridges and looking after his ranch interests, had already fallen violently in love with Betty. She was delicate, but, if those in Medicine Bend who remembered her said true, a lovely creature. Remaining in the mountains was the last thing Betty had ever thought of, but no one, man or woman, could withstand Dick Dunning. She fell quite in love with him the first time she set eyes on him in Medicine Bend, for he was very handsome in the saddle, and Betty was fairly wild about horses. So Dick Dunning would a fond mistress and married her, and buried her, and all within hardly more than a year.

But in that year they were very happy; never two happier, and when she slept away her suffering she left him, as a legacy, a day-baby girl. Fanny brought the milk of a creature in its swaddling clothes to the sick mother—very, very sick then—and poor Betty turned her dark eyes on it, kissed it, looked at her husband and whispered "Dickie," and died. Dickie had been Betty's pet name for her mountain lover, so the father said the child's name should be Dickie and nothing else; and his heart broke and soon he died. Nothing else, storm or flood, death or disaster, had ever moved Dick Dunning; then a single blow killed him. He rode once in a while over the ranch, a great tract by the time of 20,000 acres, all in one body, all under fence, up and down both forks of the big river, in part irrigated, swarming with cattle—none of it stirred Dick; and with little Dickie in his arms he slept away his suffering.

So Dickie was left, as her mother had been, to Puss, while Lance looked after the ranch, swore at the price of cattle, and played cards at Medicine Bend. At ten, Dickie, as thoroughly spoiled as a pet baby could be by a fond mammy, a fond cousin, and a galaxy of devoted cowboys, was sent, in spite of crying and flinging, to a far-away convent—her father had planned everything—where in many years she learned that there were other things in the world besides cattle and mountains and sunbathing and tall, broad-hatted horsemen to swing from their stirrups and pick her hat from the ground—just to see little Dickie laugh—when they swooped past the house to the corral. When she came back from Kentucky, her grandmother dead and her school days finished, all the land she could see in the valley was hers, and all the living creatures in the fields. It seemed perfectly natural, because since childhood even the distant mountains and their snows had been Dickie's.

CHAPTER VI.

In Marion's Shop.
In Boney street, Medicine Bend, stands an early-day row of one-story buildings; they once made up a prosperous block, which has long since fallen into the decay of palatial days. There is in Boney street a livery stable, a bakery, a moribund grocery, and a bicycle shop, and at the time of this story there was also Marion Sinclair's millinery shop; but the better class of Medicine Bend business, such as the gambling houses, saloons, pawnshops, restaurants, barber shops, and those consoling, clean-shaven, and alert establishments known as "gentle stores," had departed Boney street for many years. Bats fly in the dark of Boney street while Front street at the same hour is a blaze of electricity and from afar, hilarity. The millinery store stood next to the corner of "Fort street. The lot lay in an "L" and at the rear of the store the first owner had built a small connecting cottage to live in. This faced on Fort street, so that Marion had her shop and living rooms communicating, and, yet apart. The store building, it still pointed out as the former shop of Marion Sinclair, where George McCloud boarded when the Crawling Stone line was built, where Whispering Smith might often have been seen, where Sinclair himself was last seen alive in Medicine Bend, where Dickie Dunning's horse dragged her senseless one wild mountain night, and where, indeed, for a time the affairs of the whole mountain division seemed to tangle in very hard knots.

In her dining room, which connected through a curried door with the shop, McCloud sat one day alone eating his dinner. Marion was out, having just served a customer. McCloud heard voices in the shop, but gave no heed till a man walked through the curried doorway and he saw Murray Sinclair standing before him. A stormy interview with Callahan and Blood at the Wickup had taken place just a week before, and McCloud, after what Sinclair had then threatened, though not prepared, felt as he saw him that anything might occur. McCloud, being in possession of the little room, however, took the initiative, fell on Sinclair, who, looking at his best bowed ironically. "My mistake," he said blandly. "Come right in," returned McCloud, not knowing whether Marion had a possible hand in her husband's unexpected appearance. "Do you want to see me?"

"I don't," smiled Sinclair, "and to be perfectly frank, he added with studied consideration, 'I wish to God I never had seen you. Well—you've thrown me, McCloud.' 'You've thrown yourself, haven't you, Murray?' 'From your point of view, of course. But, McCloud, this is a small country for two points of view. Do you want to get out of it, or do you want me to?' 'The country suits me, Sinclair.' 'No man that has ever played me dirt can stay here while I stay,' Sinclair, with a hand on the posthole, was moving from the doorway into the room. McCloud in a leisurely way rose, though with a slightly flushed face, and at that juncture Marion ran into the room and spoke abruptly. 'Here is the silk, Mr. Sinclair,' she exclaimed, handing to him a package she had not finished wrapping. 'I meant you to wait in the other room.' 'It was an accidental intrusion,' returned Sinclair, maintaining his irony. 'I have a package, and Mr. McCloud, I understand one another better than ever.'"

"Please say to Miss Dunning," continued Marion, nervous and insistent, "that the band for her riding-hat hasn't come yet, but it should be here to-morrow." As she spoke McCloud leaned across the table, resolved to take advantage of the opening, if it cost him his life. "And by the way, Mr. Sinclair, Miss Dunning wished me to say to you that the lovely bay colt you sent her had sprung his shoulder badly, the hind shoulder, I think, but they are doing everything possible for it and they think it will make a great horse."

Sinclair's snort at the information was a marvel of indecision. Was he being made fun of? Should he draw and end it? But Marion faced him resolutely as he stood, and talking in the most business like way she backed him out of the room and to the shop door. Barked of his opportunity, he retreated stubbornly but with the utmost politeness, and left with a grin, lashing his tail, so to speak.

Coming back, Marion tried to hide her weakness under even tones to McCloud. "I'm sorry he disturbed you. I was attending to a customer and had to ask him to wait a moment."

"Don't apologize for having a customer," "He lives over beyond the Stone ranch, you know, and is taking some things out for the Dunnings to-day. He likes an excuse to come in here because it annoys me. Finish your dinner, Mr. McCloud."

"Thank you, I'm done."

"But you haven't eaten anything. Isn't your steak right?"

"It's fine, but that man—well, you know how I like him and how he likes me. I'll content myself with digesting my temper."

CHAPTER VII.

Smoky Creek Bridge.
It was not alone that a defiance makes bad dinner sauce; there was more than this for McCloud to feed on. He was forced to confess to himself as he walked back to the Wickup that the most annoying feature of the incident was the least important.

"Here is the silk, Mr. Sinclair."

name, that his only enemy in the country should be trusted with commissions from the Stone ranch and be carrying packages for Dickie Dunning. It was Sinclair's trick to do things for people, and to make himself so useful that they must like first his obligingness and afterward himself. Sinclair, McCloud knew, was close in many ways to Lance Dunning. It was said to have been his influence that won Dunning's consent to sell a right of way across the ranch for the new Crawling Stone line. But McCloud felt it useless to disguise the fact to himself that he now had a second keen interest in the Crawling Stone country—not alone a dream of a line, but a dream of a girl. Sitting moodily in his office, with his feet on the desk, a few nights after his encounter with Sinclair, he recalled her nod as she said good-by. It had seemed the least bit encouraging, and he meditated anew on the only 20 minutes of real pleasurable excitement he had ever felt in his life, the 20 minutes with Dickie Dunning at Smoky Creek. Her intimacies, he had heard, called her Dickie, and he was vaguely envying her intimacies when the night dispatcher, Rooney Lee, opened the door and disturbed his reflections.

"How is Number One, Rooney?" called McCloud, as if nothing but the thought of a train movement ever entered his head. "Rooney Lee paused. In his hand he held a message, and he faced McCloud with a faint smile. "Holy smoke, Mr. McCloud, here's a ripper! We've lost Smoky Creek bridge." "Lost Smoky Creek bridge?" echoed McCloud, rising in amazement. "Burned to-night. Seventy-seven was flagged by the man at the pump station."

"That's a lie-up for your life!" exclaimed McCloud, reaching for the message. "How could it catch fire? Is it burned up?"

"I can't get anything on that yet; this came from Canby. I'll have a good wire in a few minutes, and get it all for you."

"Have Phil Halley and Hyde notified, Rooney, and Reed and Brill Young, and get up a train! Smoky Creek bridge! By heaven, we are ripped up the back now! What can we do there, Rooney?" He was talking to himself. "There isn't a thing for it on God's earth but switchbacks and five-per-cent grades down to the bottom of the creek and cribbing across it till the new line is ready. Wire Callahan and Morris Blood, and get everything you can for me before we start."

Ten hours later and many hundreds of miles from the mountain division, President Bucks and a companion were riding in the peace of a June morning down the beautiful Mohawk valley with an earlier and illustrations railroad man, William C. Brown. The three men were at breakfast in Brown's car. A message was brought in to his companion, Whispering Smith, who sat at Brown's left hand. The message was from Callahan with the news of the burning of Smoky Creek bridge. Details were few, because no one on the west end could suggest a plausible cause for the fire.

"What do you think of it, Gordon?" demanded Bucks, bluntly. "Whispering Smith seemed at all times bordering on good-natured surprise, and in that normal condition he read Callahan's message. He was laughing under Bucks' scrutiny when he handed the message back. 'Why, I don't know a thing about it, not a thing; but taking a long shot and speaking by and far, I should say it looks something like first blood for Sinclair,' he suggested, and to change the subject lifted his cup of coffee."

Then it looks like you for the mountains to-night, instead of, for Weber and Fields," retorted Bucks, reaching for a cigar. "Brown, why have you never learned to smoke?" (TO BE CONTINUED.)

PERFECTLY MOULDED FIGURES.

Another Medical Discovery.
To get out of distasteful and detrimental to beauty of form as well as to health. There is a certain rubbishness which robs a good figure of charm and grace. Those who are beginning to grow fat rapidly are never in the pink of condition. But here medical science has slipped in with a wonderful remedy—one which not only restores a perfectly moulded form but renews health and strength. It gives the recipe in full for the benefit of our stoutest friends. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and bedtime. The great virtue of this harmless remedy is that whilst the excess fat is being expelled, the person under treatment has a healthy appetite and does not need to study dietetics or go in for tiresome exercises. The whole system is "refreshed" and reinvigorated, the blood renewed and muscular development restored.

China and Japan Reach Agreement.
Tientsin, Aug. 20.—Announcement of an amicable settlement of all pending questions which have served to disturb the friendly relations between Japan and China will be made officially within a short time. Arrangement of the differences relating to the Antung-Mukden railway probably will be concluded as a note to the powers.

A game of baseball, one of slapstick comedy and both victories for Uniontown is what greeted ladies' day, the biggest mid-week crowd of the season and one of the last appearances of the Champion team here.

It was an awful, awful wallop, my readers, and came so sudden, too. The fans really were looking for something better, but the best the Cokers did was none too good. Six hits and no runs in 16 innings does not produce victories as a general rule, but the Coker cup of bitterness was overflowing when old man Wilson whitewashed them in the second contest. No one every accused "Doc" of being a Christy Matthewson, at that.

The first game was a pipkin, from both points of view, up to the ninth inning. Slicko and Roberts were the opposing twirlers, and up to the eighth inning not a bingle was made off the college boy. Slicko was less fortunate, but always tightened up at critical points. In the eighth Slicko got the first bingle for the Cokers, while in the ninth Dunn and Myers secured hits, but that did not produce any runs. Uniontown scored twice in the ninth, when a double and three singles off Slicko, turned the trick. The score:

The Second Game.
The second game was a farce. Vic Willis started to work but his sore finger was still in bad shape and Vic lacked both control and curves. After Uniontown had made two runs in the second inning Yoedt was sent to the hill. A pressed ball and a single gave the Champs another pair of runs, making the score 4 to 0.

Uniontown made two runs in the sixth and then quite, but the Cokers were helpless before Wilson. Morgan and Calhoun, ordinarily good for a hit or two, were the worst whiffers of the bunch. Dave fanned all three times and Morgan twice, while the other Cokers were almost as unfortunate. Gilligan, Dunn and Myers got the three hits Wilson allowed. The crowd was glad when the seventh inning brought an end to the game. The same teams play two games at Uniontown today.

Woolly Walls.

And Grafton won.
Wanted—some hits.
Cokers played awfully in the field.
Uniontown team lacks brains on the bases.
Dutch Rudolph did some great work with the willow.
Kid Hagan was unfortunate. There were three double plays and he hit into each of them.

Ike Francis gamely played in both contests in spite of a bad arm. He wrenched it making a spectacular heave of Cowan's deep grounder in the second game.

Ike, Dunn and Morgan all went after a high fly by McAliese in the seventh inning of the second game and none of them got it. Dud got fresh and started for second but Morgan picked up the ball and beat him to the bag.

Jimmy Miller was spliced by Myers in the last inning of the first game and gave Levy Cowan a chance to show off.

In the second game the hit and run was signalled and big Rudolph started in for the pan. Carles passed up the offering and Rudy was an easy out. Both men looked foolish.

Dunn made a great stop of Hitley's bouncer in the first game and tossed the fair haired infielder out at first.

Ike's arm went back on him in the last game so he threw Wilson out by letting Hagan relay the ball to Gilligan.

McAliese hit a mean one to Gilligan and the ball rolled away. Gilligan liked for the bag and Yoedt recovered the ball in time to retire the runner.

The Cokers made but one error in the two games. In the second contest a mean grounder got through Dunn. Billy was set to take it on the mound when the ball slid through him. But for this unexpected change of pace on the part of the sphere the play would have been an easy out.

Miller made Uniontown's only mistake by fumbling the easiest kind of a grounder. Jimmy makes but few bobbles and the Cokers take delight in watching the clunkers in his direction.

Friley's arm was in good trim. He killed several ambitious base runners who tried to pilfer second.

Willis had a finger poisoned and it is still giving him trouble. That accounted for his wildness.
